After around 50 celebs endorsed @lenirobredo , Marcos trolls and influencers are saying their endorsements don't matter. Hmmm. So why do companies pay celebs millions to endorse their products? We shall see after election day who is right.

Apparently, Frasco would like to open up Mindanao to tourism. Im sure the extremist Abu Sayyaf and other bandits would be pleased by the prospects of so many potential kidnap victims. Way to go, Frasco. Prep yourself for ransom negotiations. ASG might ask you to nego personally.

SUMMARY

Rate , Percentage , Base

R P B

$$R = P / B$$

$$P = R \times B$$

$$B = P / R$$

Pwede namang isang formula lang ang i- memorize , just substitute the value basta alam mo alin yung R, P, or B.

BASE = KABUUAN

RATE = %

PERCENTAGE = PORTION OF THE BASE

2) 36% OF 150 = ?

- PERCENTAGE (P)
- BASE (B)
- RATE (R)

FORMULA

$$P = R \times B$$

$$= 0.36 \times 150$$

$$P = 54$$

ALWAYS CONVERT % TO DECIMAL BAGO MAG-COMPUTE

3) 40 % OF — IS 24

- PERCENTAGE (P)
- BASE (B)
- RATE (R)

FORMULA: $B = P / R$

$$B = \frac{24}{0.40}$$

$$B = 60$$

BASE, RATE, PERCENTAGE

BASE - KABUUAN

RATE - ITO YUNG MAY %

PERCENTAGE - PORTION OF THE BASE

1) 18 IS WHAT % OF 72

- 72 → BASE
- WHAT % → RATE
- 18 → PERCENTAGE

FORMULA

$$RATE = \frac{PERCENTAGE}{BASE}$$

$$R = \frac{P}{B}$$

$$= \frac{18}{72}$$

$$= 0.25 \rightarrow \text{convert to \%} \quad (\times 100)$$

$$= 25\%$$

OR

$0.25 = 25\%$

$$R = \frac{P}{B}$$

MOVE 2 DECIMAL PLACES TO THE RIGHT AND AFFIX % SIGN

48. The price of the book is first decreases by 25% and then increased by 20%, then the net change in the price will be_____.

Salamat daw kay PRRD, sabi dito sa trending topic ngayon?

For what? For the EJKs, for normalizing misogyny, for jailing political dissenters? For the lies & fake news?

Without Leni, it would have been unbearable 6 years.

Kaya ang dapat pasalamatan ay si Leni—hindi si Duterte!

Ako mismo ay nasaktan sa pagtatangkang ito . Dahil sa simula lahat kami na nagpuyat at nag-sakripisyo noon sa Edsa ay dahil sa pagmamahal sa Inang Bayan at hindi para sa oposisyon o isang politiko.

Hindi ko matatanggap na matapos ang tatlong dekada ay babastusin ang paniniwala at paninindigan kong iyon ng ilan para lang mag-angat ng bangko kay Pangulong Marcos.

Huwag ninyo namang babuyin ang kasaysayan.

I believe that a person who can conjure a lie from an appreciation post—that a helicopter is being used to go home every day, even giving in to the itch of maliciously suggesting that it is for personal use—should seriously reflect on why he had to lie.

I think that if this person can recognize his anger, he will be able to overcome his bitter and spiteful self. Hopefully, he becomes a better version of himself—despite the cycle of hate that has enslaved him.

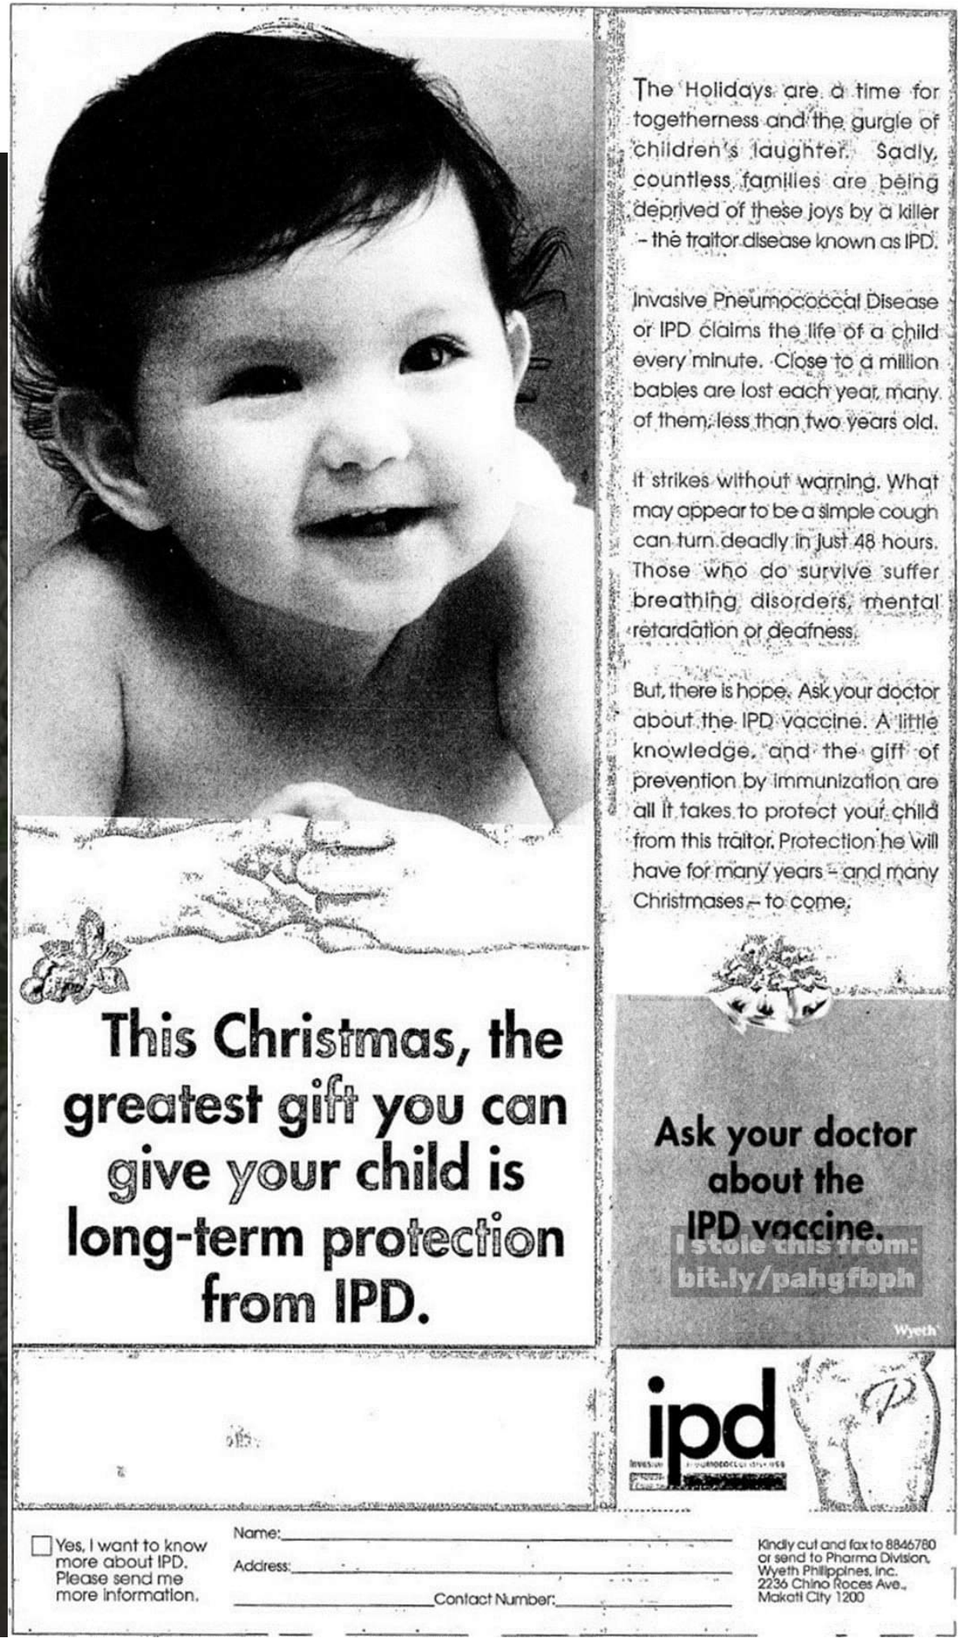
Merry Christmas, mga ka-Trivia

PHOTO | CAROUSELL



The Holidays are a time for togetherness and the gurgle of children's laughter. Sadly, countless families are being deprived of these joys by a killer – the traitor disease known as IPD.

Invasive Pneumococcal Disease or IPD claims the life of a child every minute. Close to a million babies are lost each year, many of them, less than two years old.

It strikes without warning. What may appear to be a simple cough can turn deadly in just 48 hours. Those who do survive suffer breathing disorders, mental retardation or deafness.

But, there is hope. Ask your doctor about the IPD vaccine. A little knowledge, and the gift of prevention by immunization are all it takes to protect your child from this traitor. Protection he will have for many years – and many Christmases – to come.

This Christmas, the greatest gift you can give your child is long-term protection from IPD.

Ask your doctor about the IPD vaccine.

DOON TAYO SA MAGALING, HINDI SA MAGNANAKAW
“Hindi porke’t nangunguha ‘raw’ magaling na. Minsan magaling lang mangbudol. Piliin ang sigurado at may napatunayan na. May malinis na track record, palaging nandyan at hindi nagtatago...magisip-isip na habang may oras ka pa...’wag maniniwala sa mga pangakong ginto...Doon tayo sa magaling, hindi sinungaling at hindi sa magnanakaw...tandaan huwag magpapabudol.”

Ikalat sa lahat.

Busted si ROSA.

Huwag bilhin ang diskarteng ROSA (Robredo-Sara). Ngayong lyamado si Leni, sasakay na sa Pink—pero ilulusot si Sara. Pasimuno ng ilang mga LGU na nuknukan ng trapo.

#LeniKiko2022 tayo.

Dear @katyperry,
Hello.
BBM, son of the dictator, fascist and grand robber is using your song ROAR as one of his campaign songs. He is running to be the next president. Please make him stop. He stands for everything the song ROAR was written against. Take back your song please

Filipinos fall for fake history

Cultural SPECTRUM

Despite being villified as a tax evader, Ferdinand Marcos Jr is ahead of Leni Robredo.

Philippine social media has exploded with support for presidential election favorite Ferdinand Marcos Jr, driven by a massive misinformation campaign aimed at revamping the family brand and smearing his top rival.

False and misleading claims have flooded Facebook, YouTube, TikTok and Twitter in the lead-up to the May 9 polls, pounding Filipinos with a barrage of propaganda on platforms where they rank among the heaviest users in the world.

Surveys show the son and namesake of the dictator heading for a landslide victory – the endgame of a decades-long, well-funded effort to return the family to the presidential palace they fled in disgrace in 1986.

Critics and opponents accuse Marcos Jr and his supporters of trying to portray his father's two-decade rule as a golden age of peace and prosperity while whitewashing human rights abuses and the plundering of state coffers.

And the effort to make over the family's image appears to be translating into votes among the largely young electorate and those nostalgic for the Marcos years.

Election-related misinformation has focused on frontrunners "Bongbong" Marcos Jr and Vice President Leni Robredo.

Data show Robredo, 56, reeling from preponderantly negative messages and Marcos Jr, 64, enjoying overwhelming positive ones, say Maria Diosa Labiste and Yvonne Chua of fact-checking alliance Tsek.ph. They said the trend was reminiscent of the flood of posts about current president Rodrigo Duterte and his opponents in 2016 that were seen as key to his win.

Marcos Jr draws support from the family's northern stronghold as well as his alliance with vice presidential candidate and first daughter Sara Duterte.

But social media's influence is critical.

One major battleground is Facebook, used by most of the Philippines' 76 million internet users.

Since Marcos Jr's narrow loss to Robredo in the 2016 vice presidential race pro-Marcos pages have pumped out misinformation about everything from electoral fraud and the family's wealth to economic achievements during his father's rule.

Robredo, who trailed Marcos by 45 percentage points in the latest poll by Pulse Asia Research, has been a major target.

Among dozens of claims about the Marcoses debunked by fact-checking is the popular assertion that the patriarch made his fortune when he was a lawyer via a massive gold payment from a client.

Also fact-checked were dozens of false or misleading claims about Robredo, including doctored photos and videos that aim to portray her as stupid, unfriendly toward voters or a communist.

In the past year there have been nearly 75 million interactions – reactions, comments or shares – with posts on more than 100 pro-Marcos pages with at least 3,000 followers, according to social media monitoring platform CrowdTangle.

That compares with just over 39 million interactions for the same number of pages promoting Robredo.

When Robredo announced her presidential bid on October 7 interactions on pro-Marcos pages spiked to more than 1.8 million – about nine times the daily average. Pro-Robredo pages received 487,000 interactions.

"It's hard for the other campaigns to compete with the Marcos machinery online because this is six years in the making," says Cleve Arguelles, an assistant lecturer in political science at De La Salle University in Manila. "They've really worked hard to dominate these spaces, and they're reaping the benefits of investing early in troll armies and building online communities."

In January, Twitter suspended more than 300 accounts reportedly linked to supporters of Marcos Jr, which the social media giant said violated its rules on manipulation and spam.

Marcos Jr has denied using trolls. "I am the victim of fake news as there are many things said about me that are not true," he said.

Marcos Jr's social media strength is the result of a "long-term investment" to rehabilitate the family brand, says Jonathan Corpus Ong, a disinformation researcher at the University of Massachusetts and Harvard University.

After the fallen dictator's death in 1989 his heirs returned home and began their remarkable political comeback, getting elected to public office while distancing themselves from their past.

Members of the clan are often portrayed as victims in misleading posts claiming they receive unfair treatment from mainstream media -- akin to claims by former US president Donald Trump.

To combat misinformation, Facebook says it works with the Commission on Elections to "connect people with accurate election information" as well as supporting fact-checking activities and investing in education programs.

But Maria Ressa, a Nobel Peace Prize-winning journalist and cofounder of Philippine news site Rappler, says Facebook could do more to "help bring down the lies."

She argues: "You cannot have integrity of elections if you don't have integrity of facts. If they make the facts debatable they are essentially … dooming our nation."
